

Enhancing Relationships

Achieving unity in diversity

How often have you experienced another person saying to you "that is not what I meant." The same message will be heard differently depending on a person's dynamic as we are hard wired from birth to communicate and process information differently. Non-verbal communications are the guide to learning how people process information. .

This weekend program on enhancing relationships will introduce easily learned tools based on Bahá'í concepts that will help you to:

- Identify the colour of your communication dynamic
- How to respectfully engage with others
- Build on your strengths and identify opportunities for personal growth
- Communicate to connect
- Become a helpmeet and helpmate
- Creatively deal with conflict
- Spiritualise your relationships based on guidance from the Hidden Words and Seven Valley's

Testimonial

Having been in the corporate world for many years, I have been exposed to programs that promise many things. In all my experience I can say that this course is the most applicable to everyday real life issues. It is a tool that once learned will always be of enormous benefit when interacting in any situation.—Dr Ellen Moscovitz, Vice President, Laboratory Corporation of America
